LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
BUREAU OF EDUCATION,
Washington, D. C.

SIR: Many students apply for admission to higher institutions in other States and sections than those in which they have received their high-school preparation. Many also seek certificates from examining and licensing boards, which have no direct means of knowing the standards of the schools from which the applicants come. The demand for this information led the Bureau of Education in 1913 to undertake the collection and preparation of lists of high schools and academies accredited by State universities, approved by State departments of education, or recognized by examining and certifying boards and by certain other agencies. The demand proved to be even greater than had been anticipated. The first edition of the bulletin containing the lists was soon exhausted. In order to meet further demands for this information and also to bring the lists up to date, second and third editions of the pamphlet were issued, in 1914 and 1916, respectively. The last edition has long been exhausted. I have therefore requested Dr. George F. Zook, specialist in higher education in the bureau, to revise the pamphlet again. The revision is contained in the accompanying manuscript, which I recommend for publication as a bulletin of the Bureau of Education.

Respectfully submitted.

Commissioner.

ACCREDITED SECONDARY SCHOOLS IN THE UNITED STATES.

The lists of accredited secondary schools which are presented now for the fourth time in this bulletin are designed to meet the needs of officers charged with the admission of new students to secondary schools, colleges, universities, professional schools (especially schools of law and medicine), normal schools, etc.; of State examining and certifying boards, which are concerned with the status of secondary schools located at a distance; and of parents who may want to know about the high schools of any particular State or section.

The first issue of the bulletin was published in 1913. The introduction to the second bulletin, published in 1915, called attention to the fact that the great annual increase in the number of secondary schools (in 1911-12 there were 13,268; in 1915-16 the number had grown to 14,206; in 1917-18 it reached 16,009), together with the sudden changes in standing, generally for the better of many secondary schools in all parts of the country, make frequent revisions of the lists desirable. It was therefore the purpose of the Bureau of Education to revise the bulletin every two years, but on account of the many other pressing matters engaging the attention of the persons responsible for the preparation of the bulletin during and immediately following the war, it was not possible to carry out this purpose, and the present revision is the first which has been made since 1916.

The lists here presented show many changes in the way of schools added to or dropped from previous lists. The accrediting agencies represented, however, remain the same, except that, because of the almost universal practice of the State accrediting bodies in extending their inspection and accrediting of secondary schools to cover private as well as public high schools, Part III of the preceding bulletin, containing the accredited lists of certain private institutions, has been omitted. The arrangement of the bulletin is substantially unchanged. The essential parts of the introductions to the previous issues are reprinted here.

ACCREDITED SECONDARY SCHOOL DEFINED.

An "accredited secondary school," as the term is used in this bulletin, is a school which is equipped to prepare students for colleges requiring 15 units for unconditioned admission and which has been investigated or approved for this purpose by one of the following agencies: A State officer of education, a university or college inspector or committee on admissions, an officer or committee of an accrediting association. Except in the case of certain of the Southern States, whose high-school courses are based upon seven years of elementary training, it is understood that these 15 units represent secondary work above the standard eight-grade elementary-school course. It is assumed that the curriculum of an accredited school represents four years of 36 or more weeks each; that at least three teachers give their whole time to high-school work,¹ and that the school keeps up an adequate library and laboratory equipment.

UNIT DEFINED.

The following authoritative definition of the word "unit" has been made by the national conference committee on standards of colleges and secondary schools, which is composed of representatives of the National Association of State Universities, the New England College Entrance Certificate Board, the College Entrance Examination Board, the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland, the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of American Colleges, the Association of Urban Universities, the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and the United States Commissioner of Education:

A unit represents a year's study in any subject in a secondary school, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work.

This statement is designed to afford a standard of measurement for the work done in secondary schools. It takes—

(1) The four-year high-school course as a basis and assumes that—

(2) The length of the school year is from 36 to 40 weeks; that—

(3) A period is from 40 to 60 minutes in length; and that—

(4) The study is pursued four or five periods a week;

but under ordinary circumstances a satisfactory year's work in any subject can not be accomplished in less than 120 sixty-minute hours, or their equivalent. Schools organized on any other than a four-year basis can nevertheless estimate their work in terms of this unit.

A four-year secondary-school curriculum should be regarded as representing not more than 16 units of work.

VARIATIONS IN REQUIREMENTS OF ACCREDITING AGENCIES.

The number of subjects recognized by the various accrediting bodies as forming an acceptable part of the college preparatory course varies greatly; for example, the subjects recognized by the College Entrance Examination Board as permissible in a standard high-school course are:²

| | Units. | | Units. |
|------------------|--------|--------------|--------|
| English..... | 3 | Gérman..... | 2-4 |

| Latin..... | 2-4 | History..... | 1-4 |
| Greek..... | 2-3 | Science..... | 1-4 |
| French..... | 2-4 | Drawing..... | 1-2 |

On the other hand, there are State universities and privately endowed institutions, like Leland Stanford University, which permit great enlargement of the range of electives. The University of California, for example, accepts the following:

| | Units. | | Units. |
| English..... | 2-4 | Physical geography..... | 1 |

² It should be noted, however, that the maximum amount of credit which a high-school student can secure in any single subject in a year is ordinarily one unit. Four units of credit in any given subject would therefore constitute the normal maximum for a high-school course.

It will therefore be apparent that the only close correspondence among the requirements of the various institutions mentioned in this pamphlet is the quantitative one. All specify 15 units, except the Universities of Delaware and Maine, which admit with 14 and 14½, respectively. None requires more than 16 units for admission.

The requirements of each accrediting agency are briefly stated at the head of the list of schools which each accredits. At the head of each list of schools accredited by a State university are summarized the requirements for admission to the A. B. course. The schools on the accredited list generally have the privilege of certificating students to other courses as well. To outline the admission requirements for all these courses would consume much space and might lead to confusion. The requirements for admission to the A. B. course may in each case be considered fairly typical of the institution's policy with respect to entrance requirements.

METHODS OF ACCREDITING.

Two methods are in common use for carrying on the system of accrediting in those States where the State authority embraces agencies for higher education. Under the first, the inspection of the work of the high schools is done through an officer or committee of the State university, and the list of acceptable or accredited high schools is published in the catalogue of the university and thus made available for other institutions within the same State or for institutions in neighboring States. Under the second, the inspection and rating are done by the State superintendent of public instruction, the State board of education, or the State education office, acting through specially appointed officers. Examples of the former method are furnished by the Universities of California, Nebraska, and Wisconsin; of the latter method, by the States of New York, Ohio, and Minnesota.

The requirement of the completion of a standard four-year high-school course representing 15 units for admission to college, or as a part of the prescription for admission to professional schools or to the practice of professions, has produced a group of organizations among whose activities are the coordination of standards of secondary education in neighboring States and the compilation of lists of accredited secondary schools. Such sectional organizations are now at work in the North Central States, New England, and the Southern States. These organizations are purely voluntary and have no legal control over the institutions which they rate. The influence which they wield, however, because of the fact that they focus representative educational opinion in their respective sections, is considerable. Occasionally also private institutions, like the University of Chicago, have carried on their own investigation and accrediting.

CONTENTS OF THE BULLETIN.

PART I: STATE LISTS.

The bulletin is divided into two parts. The first part, as is appropriate, contains lists of schools accredited by State universities and State officers of education. Sometimes both the State university and the State department of education publish lists of accredited schools. In such cases the list of the State university is printed first, and all schools accredited by the State education department not included in the university list are then added by way of supplement.³ When the State department of education or the State university publishes lists of accredited or approved high schools of different grades, only schools of the first grade are included in the bulletin,

except in the case of California, Georgia, Kansas, Kentucky, Nebraska, North Dakota, and Tennessee.⁴

PART II: LISTS OF ACCREDITING ASSOCIATIONS.

Part II contains the lists of the three principal associations which undertake to accredit schools. The methods or standards of these associations are not identical. The list accredited by each is preceded by a statement of the basis upon which it is compiled.

The schools are listed alphabetically, according to the towns in which they are located. The names of accredited private secondary schools and academies are printed in italics.

¹ An accredited public high school is located in each place in the list where name is not followed by the name of a school.

⁴ Schools in Division B of the University of California are accredited. Their continued accrediting, however, is rendered somewhat uncertain by undeveloped organization, inadequate resources, or other causes.

The schools in Group 2 of the Georgia list, though weak in laboratory, library, and sometimes teaching staff, are fully accredited by the University of Georgia, and are therefore included in the bulletin.

Classes B, C, and D schools accredited by the Kansas State Department of Education and the University of Kansas are four-year schools "which on account of financial and other considerations do not provide courses of study covering all departments of secondary work, or in which there is not the same degree of permanency and efficiency in general administration."

Schools accredited by the University of Kentucky in Class B are required to have only two teachers. The session is six weeks longer, however, than that of the Class A schools.

Schools in Group B of the Nebraska list are accredited by the University of Nebraska, though they do not fully meet the standards of Group A schools as to preparation of teachers, or in library or laboratory facilities.

Graduates of the schools in the second and third classes are admitted to the University of North Dakota on certificate.

The State Department of Education of Tennessee grades the high schools of the State as A-1, A, B, and C. Graduates of all these schools except grade C are admitted unconditionally to the University of Tennessee, and are therefore included in the bulletin.

ILLINOIS.

Schools accredited by the University of Illinois, January 1, 1921.

"The following high schools, having all the prescribed units and enough others to make up the required total of 15 units, are in the list of fully accredited schools.

"Not all these schools, however, are accredited for the same amount of work, nor all for the same subjects. A student presenting a certificate from anyone of these schools will be given entrance credit for all the subjects named therein for which the said school is specifically accredited, as shown in the certificate of its accredited relation issued by the university."

TENNESSEE.

Schools approved by the State Department of Education and accredited by the University of Tennessee for the year 1920-21.²⁵

The State Department of Education of Tennessee grades the high schools of the State as A-1, A, B, and C. Graduates of all of the schools so graded are admitted to the University of Tennessee on certificate. Since, however, graduates of the C grade schools are admitted on trial, the schools in this grade have not been included in the following list, as it is the purpose to include in the bulletin only such schools as prepare their graduates to meet fully the entrance requirements of universities and colleges.

Part II.—LISTS OF SCHOOLS ACCREDITED BY VARIOUS ASSOCIATIONS.

COMMISSION OF THE ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS OF THE SOUTHERN STATES.

The minimum standard for accrediting shall be:

(a) No school shall be accredited which does not require for graduation the completion of a four-year high-school course of study embracing 15 units as defined by this association. A unit represents a year's study in any subject in a secondary school, constituting approximately a quarter of a full year's work. More than 20 periods per week should be discouraged.

(b) The minimum scholastic attainment of three-fourths of all secondary school teachers of academic subjects in any accredited school on the southern list shall be equivalent to graduation from a college belonging to the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, or a college approved by the commission. Teachers should have had professional training or one year's experience.

(c) The number of daily periods of class instruction given by any teacher should not exceed five periods per day; and the commission will scrutinize with extreme care any school in which instructors teach as many as six daily periods.

(d) The laboratory and library facilities shall be adequate for the needs of instruction in the courses taught. The library should have 500 volumes exclusive of duplicates and Government publications.

(e) The location and construction of the buildings, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, the nature of the lavatories, corridors, water supply, school furniture, apparatus, and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

(f) The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and speech, the general intellectual and moral tone of a school are paramount factors; and, therefore, only schools which rank well in these particulars, as evidenced by rigid, thorough-going, systematic inspection, shall be considered eligible for the list.

(g) The commission will decline to consider any school whose teaching force consists of fewer than four teachers of academic subjects giving their full time to high-school instruction. When local conditions warrant the introduction of the so-called vocational subjects, such as agriculture, manual training, household arts, and commercial subjects, the commission will hold that a sufficient number of teachers and proper equipment must be added to provide adequately for such instruction.

* * * * *

(i) All schools whose records show an excessive number of pupils per teacher, as based on the average number belonging, even though they may technically meet all other requirements, will be rejected. The association recognizes 30 as maximum.

NEW ENGLAND COLLEGE ENTRANCE CERTIFICATE BOARD.

Members of the board: Amherst College, Bates College, Boston University, Bowdoin College, Brown University, Colby College, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Middlebury College, Tufts College, Wesleyan University, Williams College.

A school to be approved by the board must—

- (1) Give satisfactory evidence as to curriculum, staff of teachers, and equipment;
- (2) Be able to prepare for college according to some one of the recognized plans for entering a college represented on the board.

A school when first approved is placed on a trial list. If the record made by its candidates in the colleges represented on the board is satisfactory, it is then placed on the approved list.

NORTH CENTRAL ASSOCIATION OF COLLEGES AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS.

The following constitute the standards for accrediting secondary schools for the year 1921-22:

A. BUILDINGS.

Standard 1. The location and construction of the buildings, the lighting, heating, and ventilation of the rooms, the nature of the lavatories, corridors, closets, water supply, school furniture, apparatus and methods of cleaning shall be such as to insure hygienic conditions for both pupils and teachers.

All schools whose buildings are inexcusably inadequate and lacking in modern equipment may expect to have North Central Association accrediting privileges withheld from them.

Standard 2. The laboratory and library facilities shall be adequate to the needs of instruction in the subjects taught.

B. ORGANIZATION AND ADMINISTRATION.

Standard 3. A.—No school shall be accredited which does not require 15 units for graduation.

A unit course of study in a secondary school is defined as a course covering an academic year that shall include in the aggregate not less than the equivalent of one hundred and twenty 60-minute hours of classroom work, two hours of shop or laboratory work being equivalent to one hour of prepared classroom work.

More than 20 periods per week of academic subjects, or 25 periods, including vocational subjects, exclusive of choral music and physical training, should be discouraged except in the cases of pupils having more than average ability.

B.—The school year shall consist of a minimum of 36 weeks.

Standard 4. The efficiency of instruction, the acquired habits of thought and study, the general intellectual and moral tone of a school are paramount factors, and therefore only schools which rank well in these particulars, as evidenced by rigid, thorough-going, sympathetic inspection, shall be considered eligible for the list.

Standard 5. No school shall hereafter be accredited whose salary schedule is not sufficient to command and retain teachers whose qualifications are such as required by this association. The interpretation of this requirement shall be a matter of special responsibility for the State committee.

C. PREPARATION OF TEACHERS.

Standard 6. All teachers teaching one or more academic subjects must satisfy the following requirements:

A.—The minimum attainment of teachers of any academic subject shall be equivalent to graduation from a college belonging to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools requiring the completion of a four-year course of study or 120 semester hours in advance of a standard four-year high school course. Such requirements shall not be construed as retroactive.

B.—The minimum professional training of teachers of any academic subject shall be at least 11 semester hours in education. This should include special study of the subject matter and pedagogy of the subject to be taught. Such requirements shall not be construed as retroactive. (For the succeeding year the board will interpret courses in education as the same courses are interpreted by the colleges or universities offering them.)

The association advises that the following types of courses should be offered as meeting the spirit of this standard: Educational psychology, principles of secondary education, theory of teaching, special methods in subjects taught, observation and practice teaching, history of education and educational sociology.

In the case of supervisors (and for the present transitional period only) the association will, in applying this standard, take into consideration the record of their teaching and administrative experience.

D. THE TEACHING LOAD.

Standard 7. A.—The number of daily periods of classroom instruction given by any teacher shall not exceed five. The commission will reject all schools having more than six recitation periods per day for any teacher.

B.—The minimum length of a recitation period shall be 40 minutes, exclusive of all the time used in the changing of classes or teachers.

For interpreting this standard in connection with laboratory work in science, and in connection with study room supervision, a double period may be counted as the equivalent of one classroom exercise for teachers of academic subjects, provided that no combination of such work amounting to more than 35 periods a week be required of any teacher.

For schools having some definite plan of supervised study, not more than five classes per day should be assigned to any teacher. The association advises that the maximum be four.

Standard 8. No schools whose records show an excessive number of pupils per teacher based on average attendance shall be accredited. The association recommends 25 for a maximum. In general, no teachers of academic subjects should be assigned more than 150 student hours of classroom instruction per day organized in not to exceed six classes per day.

E. PROGRAM OF STUDIES.

Standard 9. The association recommends that every accredited school offer units of work in mathematics, social sciences, languages (including English), natural sciences, the fine arts, and physical training. It further recommends the introduction of vocational subjects, such as agriculture, manual training, household economics, and commercial subjects into schools where local conditions render such introduction feasible. The association will hold that a sufficient number of qualified teachers must be provided to care adequately for all instruction offered. Not less than the equivalent of the full teaching time of three teachers may be given to academic subjects.
